DIRECTOR GENERAL'S MESSAGE

India's successful Chandrayaan-3 lunar landing on August 23, 2023 reflects the nation's commitment to technological growth. In the mining scenario, advancements in technological integration are expected to contribute significantly to uplift occupational health and safety status. Integration of mining processes with automation, AI, big data utilization, remote technologies, robotics integration, sensor advancements, cloud computing, virtual modeling, Industrial Internet of Things (IIoT), and sustainability drives is going to address several mining challenges.

DGMS is continuously absorbing technological advancements for easing the processes like online inspections through the Shram Suvidha Portal, online dealing with permissions and approvals, statutory examinations through CBT, processing NSA applications, dissemination of information through social media like YouTube, Twitter (now, X), publication of periodical Bulletins, etc. All these transformations have resulted in more ease, transparency, and speedy services.

Coming to safety statistics, the escalating occurrence of accidents, particularly due to wheeled trackless transportation machinery like dumpers, tippers, trucks, and water tankers in opencast mines, presents an alarming trend. Additionally, fire incidents due to spontaneous heating in coal mines and in HEMM have become a concern. Ensuring the enforcement of relevant statutory provisions and the Safety Management Plans' effective implementation associated with increased activities of awareness and training programmes are imperative to prevent such occurrences. I invite your attention to take the necessary steps to prevent such recurrences.

I earnestly invite and encourage your active engagement and participation in upholding the objective of "Zero Harm" through self-regulation.

Warm Regards,

(Prabhat Kumar)
